Mercy Streets

"Hooray for producer/actor White who, along with writer/director Jon Gunn, has combined an interesting storyline with fascinating dual roles and created a dynamic, age-old story of faith for today's audience. White's unique portrayal of two brothers torn by their own personal tragedy is immersed in spiritual symbolism and meaningful life examples. From the spontaneous sermon the impersonating con-priest gives to his congregation about giving money to troubled street kids to the questions Rome riddles Jeremiah about divine destiny, the dialogue is witty, humorous, thought-provoking and compelling."

Mercy Streets

"White is persuasive in the dual twin roles, although White as John's streetwise cynicism is a little more convincing. With lank black hair hooding his eyes and face. White gives a hard-edged gloss to both brother's search for redemption."

Mercy Streets

'David a.r. White plays the twins John and Jeremiah. White has a lot of good moments, especially when he has to fake Jeremiah's debut sermon and comes up with a persuasive plea to loosen purse strings to help the desperately impoverished, especially young people who have their entire lives in front of them. At the same time Jeremiah's fiancée (Cynthia Watros) is delighted by the unexpected change in her husband to be."
